13h00: Opening

13h10: Reconciliation from the perspective of the needs-based model

- Nurit Shnabel

Dr. Nurit Shnabel received her PhD in social psychology from Tel Aviv University in 2008. Her dissertation developed the needs-based model of reconciliation, a theoretical framework for understanding the identity needs of victims and perpetrators. After completing her post-doctoral studies as a Fulbright Foundation Exchange Scholar at Yale University, she joined Tel Aviv University, where she currently serves as a Full Professor at the School of Psychological Sciences. She also serves as the Diversity Officer of the European Association of Social Psychology.

14h00: TAAPWAYWIN: Memory, Truth, and Human Rights

- Ry Moran

Ry Moran is Canada's inaugural Associate University Librarian – Reconciliation at the University of Victoria. His role within UVic Libraries' focuses on building and sustaining relationships to introduce Indigenous approaches and knowledge into the daily work of the Libraries and more broadly across the campus community. Ry came to this position from the National Centre for Truth and Reconciliation hosted by the University of Manitoba. Prior to the NCTR, he served with the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada.

15h00: Settler Research and (Re)Conciliation in Indigenous Country

- Vicki Chartrand
